National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment
A weak front moving up from the south will give light precipitation. As this happens temperatures will rise, though this will be a slow process and so in some places ice is expected on roads and pavements for a few hours.

This is an update to a previously issued warning - the geographical area covered has been expanded and the warning start time has been brought forward.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 04:30 on Fri, 14th Dec 2012 until 10:00 on Fri, 14th Dec 2012

Road surface temperatures may be below freezing as patchy rain, sleet and snow move north across the area. The public are advised to be aware of the risk of ice, especially on untreated surfaces.
